Tasting #1 – Cragganmore – “In a Perfumed Garden”

Colour: Papyrus paper gold

Nose: What a fabulous nose . . . Heady, aromatic floral (potpourri, jasmine lavender, elderflower), exotically fruity (wild strawberry, mandarin, mango, papaya) and sweet (popping candy, Turkish delight); Also, soft leather and paint.

Palate: The taste offered intense perfumed sweetness and was fabulously juicy – peaches, papaya, honey, dates, strawberry in prosecco, crème brule, mango pieces in dark chocolate and a silky smooth mouth feel.

Finish: Beautifully tasty and mellow with understated hints of liquorice, tobacco, coconut, orange pekoe tea and woody spice in the finish.

Note: One could easily imagine Monet in his perfumed garden painting still life fruit bowls.

25 Year Old Cutty Sark “Tam o’ Shanter”

Colour: Rich, shadowy dark amber as if glistening from a subterranean fire.

Nose: Drifting incense held in the evening air, exotic spices, jasmine, anise and sandalwood dance and leap out of the glass – promising something rather complex and special. Muscular sherried sweetness, vanilla candle wax, rich fruitcake and honey sweetness cavort with the aromatic spices and blood orange zest, soft peat smoke and a hint of tar.

Palate: Full bodied, boisterous, and sweet with a darkly sinister menace. Rich velvet curtains surround dark chocolate, eucalyptus, cracked black pepper and drying mint whilst dancing with rich full sherry sweetness and toffee.

Finish: Lingering, long, rich, sweet yet spicy.

Note: A truly full bodied whisky . . . A maleficent dram !
